A new day care centre and school campus with a view for the Baakenhafen city quarter

A tree trunk as a symbol for growth

The German word Kindergarten is understood all over the world. In its design, the Danish office Werk Arkitekter has interpreted it literally. Two 'tree trunks' with fixed functional areas form the organic core. Around them is the actual kindergarten with group rooms and spacious, flexibly usable movement areas. According to the architects, green play areas run through the entire building up to the roof terrace with playground and children's restaurant. Limbrock Tubbesing Architects developed the idea further in a design structure and in the implementation planning. All the facades of the upper floors were provided with wall-mounted greenery.

All services from a single source

PORR impressed with its wide range of services and customised construction solutions during the construction of the daycare centre. The facility was realised economically and safely by December 2023 in accordance with the functional and design requirements.
