From company premises to residential area.

Student flats, flats for senior citizens, town houses for families and barrier-free condominiums were built, as well as day care centres, commercial buildings and practice areas.

Sustainable living.

The buildings are three to four storeys high. The Wohnen im Turm is a seven-storey corner building. The individual houses have a central underground garage, storage rooms and central building services. District heating supplies the buildings. Since the scope of the contract also includes the implementation planning, it was possible to partially redesign the in-situ concrete components into filigree ceilings and walls. The façade consists mainly of clinker facing masonry as an outer shell of double-shell masonry with core insulation without an air layer.
