Luxury hotel in the heart of Berlin.

It also houses a restaurant with a floor space of more than 700m² and a private dining area. A spacious courtyard rounds off the overall architectural concept. In accordance with Baukollegium Berlin's specifications, the street-side façades were executed with large window spaces stretching from the ground floor up to the technology floor as well as natural stone pilaster strips. The building was erected at the most modern and highest standards and in accordance with the specifications for sustainable building as defined by the DGNB Gold Certificate and was also thus awarded. In the course of this project, PORR was responsible for the turn-key-ready construction of this building which included the entire execution planning.
