Construction site at the military training area Drawsko Pomorskie

To ensure that construction was completed on time, the client paid meticulous attention to adherence to time milestones and the seamless exchange of information between all parties involved. The BBGS team also left nothing to chance when it came to coordinating the individual project steps and planning the activities. The customer particularly appreciated the attention to detail and transparent, closely timed communication on the part of BBGS.

Successful teamwork of the PORR family

The design was developed in close cooperation between the Design Manager of BBGS in Germany and the Project Manager of BBGS in Poland. This cooperation was immensely valuable both in setting standards during project planning and during the project evaluation process and presentation to the client. Especially during procurement in the area of the exterior cladding of the building and the earth structures, the colleagues from PORR SA (Poland) were there to help, as the search for subcontractors in the sparsely populated area proved to be very difficult.
