Intricate facade architecture and challenging soil conditions

The challenge: building in the city centre

The construction site was cramped into a tight space adjacent to another building and a car park, and consequently the experts at PORR had to work very carefully and precisely. For example, when constructing the pit lining, the soldier pile wall was installed directly on the car park boundary. The team had to ensure that the rest of the car park was not obstructed during the work.

Impressions

Image notes

1

A new twist on traditional nineteenth-century architecture

The building on Maybachufer has a striking round corner tower with a domed roof.
