Where tradition and modernity go hand in hand located in the church, which was deconsecrated in 2009. A total of 2,800m² of gross floor area was renovated from the ground up. The parquet flooring, stucco trim and 120 wooden mullioned windows were extensively refurbished in coordination with the heritage conservation authorities. The colour and materials concept was based on the existing building and was extensively tested on samples before construction work began.

Short construction period thanks to extensive prefabrication

Within the total construction period of only ten months, the PORR team also demolished an existing dormitory from the 1960s to make way for a new five-storey building with a gross floor area of 3,500m². With 75 hotel rooms, modern conference rooms, offices and break areas, as well as exercise, sauna and sports facilities, the hotel offers conference attendees every conceivable convenience. Using prefabricated reinforced concrete hollow walls and filigree ceilings as well as prefabricated bathroom modules, the shell of the building was erected in just four months. The flat roof was constructed as an inverted roof and planted with vegetation.
